Summer's Token. Along the purple slopes,
Past leafy vine and free,
The Summer goes with fragrant hopes,
And luring melody.

Her footstep on the earth,
Her whisper in the air,
Awaken all the souls of mirth
And make the whole world fair.

The hills are sweet with song.
The valleys fill with fire;
Joy in the garden tarries long,
The Rose has her desire.

Another year away,
Yield me the rosebud of your lips,
And name the happy day!

No. 872. TO DEATH, OF HIS LADY

By FRANCOIS VILLON.

The best translation ever made of Villon's musterpieces, "The Ballad of Dead Laddes" has already been printed in this series. To-day we give another of Rossetti's incomparable translations from the prince of ballad writers. The portrait, biography and autograph have already appeared.

Who hadst my lady away from me, Nor wilt assuage thine enmity Till with her life thou, hast mine own; )
For since that hour my strength has flown.
Lo! what wrong was her life to thee,

Two we were, and the heart was one; Which now being dead, dead I must be, Or seem alive as lifelessly As in the choir the painted stone, Death!
